U.S. retail e-commerce sales- that is, retail purchases made online- increased by nearly 15% in the first quarter of 2020, according to the United States Census Bureau. During the same period, retail e-commerce sales accounted for about 12% of all U.S. retail sales, according to the Federal Reserve Bank of St. Louis. These numbers are impressive enough isolated. And it's worth noting that they portray a moment in time before the full extent of the COVID-19 pandemic had sunk in with American consumers. Many industry-watchers and economists expect the ongoing shift from bricks and mortar to online retail to accelerate in the wake of the pandemic, with a far more expansive and sophisticated e-commerce sector one of the many long-term changes made by the disease. It is almost certain that you did more online shopping than usual in the first half of 2020. That makes it very likely that you spent more time than usual seeking out online discounts, offers, and savings hacks. One step you can take right now to find better prices for future online purchases is to add Capital One Shopping, a free browser extension (available for Chrome, Firefox, Safari and Microsoft Edge) that helps customers save money online. Capital One Shopping features give rise to several smart online shopping hacks that can reduce your annual retail bill when paired with other common e-commerce savings strategies. Online Shopping Hacks to Save Big Money In addition to More Capital One Shopping Features That Can Help You Save Big On how to shop, Capital One Shopping complements a number of other trusted online shopping hacks as well. 1. Capital One Shopping automatically uses the best available coupon codes on thousands of retail sites Capital One Shopping automatically tests coupon codes at thousands of online stores, including big names like Target, Costco and Best Buy. If Capital One Shopping finds a valid coupon code or codes when you shop on a retailer's website, it notifies you in the coupon code field (usually in your shopping cart or on the payment page). After testing all available codes, Capital One Shopping uses the best for the relevant items and shows how much you can save. All you need to do to claim these savings is to complete the payment process and make the purchase. 2. Use Capital One Shopping every time you shop Amazon Don't forget to shop with Capital One Shopping when browsing amazon's website. While shopping on Amazon, Capital One Shopping automatically searches for better deals on identical products at Target, Best Buy, Home Depot, Walmart and other retail sites. When one or more non-Amazon sellers have a better deal available, Capital One Shopping shows lower-priced matches or matches within 15 seconds and provides a detailed summary of the offer: Total price with tax, shipping, and active coupons Price History Return Policy Related Product Offerings from millions of other Capital One Shopping users Estimated delivery date Product reviews and ratings 3. Visit the Capital One Shopping website for better deals on specific products and sellers In the mood to be inspired? Visit the Capital One Shopping website and click the Discover tab to browse offers from dozens of top retailers, including retailers such as FedEx, Dell, Shutterfly, Choice Hotels and Liberty Mutual Insurance. Keep scrolling to find thousands of product-specific deals on items similar to the ones you've recently shopped for, each with average savings listed in green under the image panel. When you see an offer you can't resist, just click through to the retailer's website and complete your purchase. 4. Scout Capital One Shopping's Local Cash-Back Deals From Merchants in Your Area Capital One Shopping website lists tempting local cash-back deals from sellers in your area, including national restaurant chains and independently operated eateries. Connect a qualified credit or debit card to your Capital One Shopping account and use it to pay in-store. On each successful transaction at a participating retailer, you earn a percentage of the transaction amount as a credit against the purchase of gift cards on Capital One Shopping. 5. Use Capital One Shopping's Watchlist to be the first to know if a better price Capital One Shopping watchlist feature shows the latest prices found by other users on items you've recently looked around the web. It shows last seen price, the latest available price, and savings (if any) in green. Sometimes the price is higher than the last set price- which is useful for customers keeping track of pricing trends, although it does not result in immediate savings. 6. Purchase with a rewards credit card Use a rewards credit card when shopping online. For daily purchases, a general cashback card is probably the best choice, since you don't have to worry about keeping track of spending categories or levels. But use store or trade-specific credit cards with rewards programs wherever you shop frequently - the Amazon Prime Rewards Visa Signature card earns unlimited 5% cash back on eligible Amazon purchases, for example. 7. Qualify for free shipping whenever possible Always look for opportunities to qualify for free shipping on online purchases. In some cases, you may have to pay for a recurring subscription like Amazon Prime, which you should only do if you patronize the seller enough to justify the cost. (Amazon Prime has potentially valuable benefits beyond free shipping, so it's appropriate for more than just customers allergic to shipping costs.) It is often possible to qualify for free shipping without a recurring subscription. Many online stores promise free shipping on each order above a certain dollar threshold - such as $35 or $50. Others promise free shipping for mailing list members, save credit card holders and customers who have otherwise shown their loyalty. 8. Sign up for mailing lists or alerts to get first-time customers To create a secondary email address to manage retail campaigns and notifications to avoid clutter in your inbox. Enter this address when signing up for retailers' email lists or text alerts, which often come with sweet incentives for first-time customers: 10% to 20% of your first order or free shipping on orders of all sizes, for example. 9. Sign up for a store credit card to get instant savings Some major retailers offer one-time or recurring incentives for large credit card users. For example, the annual fee-free Target RedCard promises 5% off almost all online and in-store purchases immediately at the point of sale. Even a one-time saving opportunity can justify the card program. But pay your balance in full as soon as your first statement arrives to avoid interest charges. 10. Check your email for abandoned shopping cart discounts You've probably left more online shopping carts than you can count. For the typical online store, shopping cart disruption is a source of unsavory frustration - and lost sales. As such, it's not surprising to see retailers pull out all the stops to bring cart-leaving customers back into the fold. A common tactic: special time-limited discounts, usually delivered via email or text (if you've signed up), on the items in the abandoned shopping cart. Check the promotional folder of your email package frequently for these messages and take advantage of it and when you actually want to buy what you left Roadside. Last word You pay nothing to use Capital Capital Shopping and taking advantage of the online shopping hacks it makes possible. You also won't use out of pocket to enjoy any of the other online shopping hacks we discussed, like earning credit card rewards or taking advantage of free shipping - provided you avoid impulse purchases and make only the purchases you planned to make already. You can do it. Capital One Shopping and these other tricks and tips can help. Soon enough, you may find that your biggest retail woes involve not overspending, but figuring out what to do with all the money you've saved.
